Risk Warning

Trading leveraged derivative products such as Foreign Exchange (Forex) and Contracts for Difference (CFDs) carries a high level of risk to your capital. All these derivative products, many of which are leveraged, may not be appropriate for all investors. The effect of leverage is that both gains and losses are magnified.

CFDs are complex instruments and come with a high risk of losing money rapidly due to leverage. 68.89% of retail investor accounts lose money when trading CFDs with INFINOX. You should consider whether you understand how CFDs work and whether you can afford to take the high risk of losing your money.

Before deciding to invest in any financial product, you should carefully consider your investment objectives, trading knowledge and experience and affordability. You should only trade in Forex and CFDs if you have sufficient knowledge and experience of the risks involved in trading such products and if you are dealing with money that you can afford to lose. You should seek independent professional financial advice if you do not understand the risks involved.

Schedule 2 – Complex Products (Forex and CFD products) General Risk Disclosure Notice1. Scope of Notice

- 1.1. The General Risk Disclosure Notice (“the Notice”) is provided to you in accordance with Applicable Regulations on the basis that you are proposing to trade on INFINOX’s trading Platforms in CFDs and Forex, which are leveraged products, incur a high level of risk and can result in losing the entire amount of your invested capital.
- 1.2. It should be noted that the Notice does not contain all the risks and aspects involved in trading Forex and CFDs; therefore, you need to ensure that your decision is made on an informed basis taking into consideration the following points below.

2. General Risk Warning Notice2.1. General

- 2.1.1. Forex and CFDs are leveraged derivative products, which are “complex” products. Complex products are Financial Instruments with structures that make the risks and likelihood of return more difficult to understand. Platforms giving access to complex products are also likely to be considered complex. A complex Financial Instrument requires a greater level of experience and knowledge of the underlying risks involved. This includes derivative instruments such as Forex and CFDs.
- 2.1.2. You should have sufficient knowledge and experience in trading such leveraged derivative products. You should not trade in leveraged derivatives unless you understand the risky nature of the contract you are entering into and the extent of your exposure to risk.
- 2.1.3. You should also be satisfied that the contract is suitable for you in the light of your personal circumstances and financial position. You should not invest money you cannot afford to lose.
- 2.1.4. Before deciding to participate in the Forex or CFD Market, you should carefully consider your investment objectives, level of experience and risk appetite. You should seek independent professional financial advice if you are in any doubt.
- 2.1.5. When trading in Forex and CFDs there is considerable exposure to risk in any off-exchange foreign exchange transaction, including, but not limited to, leverage risk, credit risk, market volatility, weekend, holiday and overnight risk, exchange rate risk and abnormal market conditions that may substantially affect the price, or liquidity of a currency or currency pair.

2.2. Leverage Risk

- 2.2.1. Unlike traditional trading, trading forex and CFDs means that you are able to trade the Markets by paying only a small percentage of the total trade value when opening a position referred to as “Margin”.
- 2.2.2. Due to the leveraged nature of Forex and CFD products, any small Market movement can lead to a proportionally much larger movement in value of your position, which can work against you as well as for you and you could lose all or more than your initial Margin.
- 2.2.3. As the possibility exists that you could sustain a loss of your total initial margined funds and that the Margin on all open positions must be maintained at the required level in order to keep any position open, you may be required to deposit additional funds to maintain your open position. This will not apply if you are classified as a Retail Client, as you cannot lose more than the total sum invested for trading.
- 2.2.4. If a position moves against you and reduces your balance so that you are below the required Margin level on a particular trade, you will be subject to a “Margin Call” and will have to pay additional money into your account to keep the position open. If you fail to meet any Margin requirements, your position may be liquidated, and you will be responsible for any resulting losses. Please note that INFINOX is under no obligation to provide a Margin Call and it is your responsibility to monitor your trading positions to ensure that you meet the margin requirement(s) at all times.
- 2.2.5. To manage exposure, you can employ risk-management strategies such as ‘stoploss’ or ‘limit’ orders, however you must know that such strategies are not guaranteed. It is your responsibility to monitor your account and ensure that the required Margin is available on your account at all times.

- 2.2.6. INFINOX's may provide leverage ratios dependent on the level of experience of clients. It should be noted that Leverage restrictions may apply to certain Products, Platforms and/or jurisdictions, as indicated on the official website of INFINOX.
- 2.2.7. It should be noted that INFINOX may monitor the leverage applied to client positions, at all times; INFINOX reserves the right to decrease the leverage depending on a client's trade volume.
- 2.2.8. There may be specific maximum leverage limits and/or Margin requirements on certain Financial Instruments that are available for trading on our Platforms. For more information, please visit our website: www.INFINOX.co.uk.

2.3. Margin Requirement

- 2.3.1. You need to ensure that you have sufficient Margin on your trading account, at all times, in order to maintain an open position. In addition, you need to continuously monitor any open positions in order to avoid positions being closed due to the unavailability of funds; it should be noted that INFINOX is not responsible for notifying clients for any such instances.
- 2.3.2. If the circumstance arises that the equity on your account falls below 80% (eighty) of the margin required, a warning will appear in your INFINOX MetaTrader 4 Platform. At this point, you should consider either closing positions or sending in additional funds to cover your positions. If you do fail to meet the Margin requirements and your account equity reaches 50% (fifty) of your required Margin, INFINOX has the discretion to automatically close your positions carrying the largest losses, without seeking your prior consent. Should your positions all hold a profit, then the positions with the smallest profits will be closed first. We will close out one or more of your open positions at the market price. This is a risk-mitigating mechanism employed by INFINOX to attempt to stop your account from falling into a negative balance. However, we cannot guarantee that your account will not fall into a negative balance, particularly in adverse Market conditions.
- 2.3.3. In our sole discretion, we may increase or decrease the amount of Initial Margin Requirement or other Margin we require from you on your open Trades. We will make reasonable efforts to notify you of any such increase in Initial Margin or other Margin rates. Examples of such circumstances include, but are not limited to:
 - 2.3.3.1. a change in the conditions of the Underlying Market such as volatility or illiquidity in the financial markets more generally; or
 - 2.3.3.2. a change in your circumstances which we believe is relevant to your financial means.
- 2.3.4. In calculation any Margin required from you we may, at our discretion, have regard to your Trades (positions) held with us which may result in a reduction in the amount of Margin required of you.

2.4. Credit Risk

- 2.4.1. When trading CFDs, the client is effectively entering into an off-exchange or over-the-counter ("OTC") transaction, this means that any position opened with INFINOX cannot be closed with any other entity.
- 2.4.2. OTC transactions may involve greater risk compared to transactions occurring on regulated markets, for example traditional exchanges; this is due to the fact that in OTC transactions there is no central counterparty and either party to the transaction bears certain credit risk (or risk of default).

2.5. Abnormal Market Conditions

- 2.5.1. Under abnormal Market conditions, Forex and CFD prices may fluctuate rapidly to reflect unforeseeable events that cannot be controlled either by INFINOX or the client. As a result, INFINOX may be unable to execute the client's instructions at the declared price and a 'stop loss' instruction cannot guarantee to limit the losses at the set 'Stop Loss', this can lead to 'Slippage'. This may occur for example during the following scenarios:
 - 2.5.1.1. During or when the Market opens; and/or
 - 2.5.1.2. During news times; and/or
 - 2.5.1.3. During times of Market volatility, for example political uncertainty, where prices may move significantly up or down and away from declared price; and/ or

- 2.5.1.4. If there is insufficient liquidity in the Market for the execution of the specific volume at the declared price.

- 2.5.2. CFD prices are influenced by, amongst other things, implementation of governmental, agricultural, commercial or trade programs and policies, national, international socioeconomic and political events.

2.6. Trading Platform Conditions

- 2.6.1. The client accepts that the only reliable source of price related information is the price quotes represented on the real/ live server; this service may be disrupted and as a result price related information may not reach the client.
- 2.6.2. There are risks associated with utilizing an internet-based trading system including, but not limited to, the failure of hardware, software, and Internet connection. Since INFINOX does not control signal power, its reception or routing via Internet, configuration of your equipment or reliability of its connection, INFINOX will not be responsible for communication failures, distortions or delays when trading via the Internet.
- 2.6.3. INFINOX is not responsible for communication failures or delays when trading via the Internet. INFINOX employs back-up systems and contingency plans to minimise the possibility of system failure, and trading via telephone is available only in the event of system failure.

2.7. Product Descriptions and Associated Risks

- 2.7.1. At any one time, not all of the products below will be available for trading purposes. INFINOX reserves the right to remove the offering of any of the following products from the trading Platforms without prior notice.

2.7.1.1. Rolling Spot Forex

Rolling spot Forex is both a future where the underlying instrument being traded is foreign exchange or sterling or it is a contract for difference where the profit is secured, or a loss is avoided through fluctuations in foreign exchange rates and in either case the contract is entered into for speculative purposes. A rolling spot forex contract can be 'rolled' indefinitely, and no currency may be actually delivered until the position is closed. This exposes both parties to fluctuations in the underlying currencies.

2.7.1.2. Spread Bet

Spread betting is a type of trading that involves taking a bet on the price movement of a security. You would generally be quoted two prices, the bid and offer price (also called the spread), and you bet whether the price of the underlying stock will be lower than the bid or higher than the offer. You will never own the underlying stock in spread betting, as you are simply speculating on the price movement of the stock.

2.7.1.3. Currency or Forex Options

Currency or Forex options are derivative financial instrument that gives the right but not the obligation to buy or sell a specific currency, at a specified exchange rate on or before a specific date. You must also realise that when buying options, you could lose the entire option investment should the option be worthless at expiry.

2.7.1.4. Contracts for Difference (CFD)

A CFD is an agreement to exchange the difference between the opening and closing value of a contract. Rather than buying or selling the underlying instrument on which your contract is based, you simply place a trade on our trading Platform. The price of your CFD will then reflect the price of the underlying asset (without actually owning the underlying product) giving you a profit (or a loss) as the price moves, so that the amount of any profit or loss made on a CFD will reflect the difference between the price at which the CFD was opened and the price at which it is closed.

CFDs are a way of trading on the upward or downward price movements of traditional financial markets without buying or selling the underlying asset directly. The potential losses associated with the price movements can be the total value of the initial margin (and any additional margin funds) you have deposited with us, and you may be obliged to close your positions at the worst possible time.

- 2.7.2. All these products are types of leveraged derivatives that are used for speculative or hedging investment purposes. Transactions in these products may also have a contingent liability and you should ensure that you are aware of the implications of this.
- 2.7.3. In addition to industry General Risk Disclosure Notice contained in this Agreement, you should be aware that margined currency trading is one of the riskiest forms of investment available in the financial Markets and is only suitable for sophisticated individuals and institutions. Given the possibility of losing an entire investment, speculation in the foreign exchange Market should only be conducted with risk capital funds that if lost will not significantly affect your personal or institution's financial wellbeing.
- 2.7.4. If you have pursued only conservative forms of investment in the past, you may wish to study currency trading further before continuing an investment of this nature.
- 2.7.5. If you wish to continue with your investment, you acknowledge that the funds you intend to invest is money you can afford to lose and the potential loss of all your investment will not jeopardize your style of living nor will it detract from your future retirement program.
- 2.7.6. Additionally, you fully understand the nature and risks of trading spot Forex, currency options, CFDs or spread betting investments, and your obligations to others will not be neglected should you suffer financial losses.

2.8. Foreign Markets

Foreign Markets involve different risks from UK Markets. In some cases, risks will be greater. The potential for profit or loss from transactions on foreign Markets or in foreign currency will be affected by fluctuations in foreign exchange rates. Such enhanced risks include the risks of political or economic policy changes, which may substantially and permanently alter the conditions terms, Marketability or price of a foreign currency.

2.9. Risk Mitigating Orders or Strategies

The placing of certain orders (e.g., "Stop Loss" or "Stop Limits" orders) that are intended to limit losses to certain amounts, are not guaranteed. Such strategies may not always be achieved because Market conditions or technological limitations may make it impossible to execute such orders.

2.10. Prices

The prices quoted may not necessarily reflect the broader Market. We will select closing prices to be used in determining Margin requirements and in periodically marking to Market the positions in Client accounts. Although we expect that these prices will be reasonably related to those available on what is known as the interbank Market, prices we use may vary from those available to banks and other participants in the interbank Market. Consequently, we may exercise considerable discretion in setting Margin requirements and collecting Margin funds.

2.11. Weekend Risk

Various situations, developments or events may arise over a weekend when currency, Commodity and other Markets generally close for trading, that may cause the Markets to open at a significantly different price from where they closed on Friday afternoon. Our Clients will not be able to use the electronic communication systems to place or change orders over the weekend and at other times when the Markets are generally closed. There is a substantial risk that stop-loss orders, which are not guaranteed, applied to manage the risk to open positions held over the weekend will be executed at levels significantly worse than their specified price and you may be liable for making good any losses, even if they are unforeseen.

2.12. Electronic Trading

The use of electronic trading systems, Platforms and communication networks to facilitate trades. Clients who trade are exposed to risks associated with the system or Platform including the failure of hardware and software system or network down timed access or connection failures.

2.13. Contingent Liability Transactions

Such Transactions are margined and require you to make a series of payments against the purchase price, instead of paying the whole purchase price immediately. You may sustain a total loss of the Margin you deposit with your dealer to establish or maintain a position. If the Market moves against you, you may be called upon to pay substantial additional Margin at short notice to maintain the position. If you fail to do so within the time required, and the margin amount in your account falls below 50% of the total initial margin required for all the CFDs in your account, INFINOX will close out one or more of your open positions and we may take this action without seeking your prior consent. Contingent liability transactions, which are not traded on or under the rules of a recognized or designated investment exchange, may expose you to substantially greater risks.

2.14. Collateral

If you deposit collateral as security, you should ascertain how your collateral will be dealt with. Deposited collateral may lose its identity as your property once dealings on your behalf are undertaken. Even if your dealings should ultimately prove profitable, you may not get back the same assets, which you deposited and may have to accept payment in cash.

2.15. Commissions

Before you begin to trade, you should obtain details of all commissions and other charges for which you will be liable from the INFINOX website or enquire at support@INFINOX.co.uk. If any charges are not expressed in money terms (but, for example, as a dealing spread), you should obtain a clear written explanation, including appropriate examples, to establish what such charges are likely to mean in specific money terms.

2.16. Insolvency

- 2.16.1. Any insolvency or default may lead to positions being liquidated or closed out without your consent. In certain circumstances, you may not get back the actual assets, which you lodged as collateral and you may have to accept any available payment in cash.
- 2.16.2. You should only engage in CFD or Rolling Spot Forex trading if you are prepared to accept a high degree of risk and in particular the risks outlined in the above. You must be prepared to sustain the total loss of all amounts you may have deposited with your firm as well as any losses, charges (such as interest) and any other amounts (such as costs) we incur in recovering payment from you.

2.17. General

- 2.17.1. If you are in any doubt whatsoever about any aspect of the risks involved in the financial instruments noted in this General Risk Disclosure Notice, then we strongly recommend that you seek independent professional help or advice before continuing as your trading strategy may not be suitable or appropriate for you.
- 2.17.2. Margin trading is not necessarily designed to replace existing or traditional methods of investing and is therefore not suited to everyone so you must ensure that you fully understand the risks before taking up your trading strategy.
